Himalayan Explorations: Decisions and Leadership

Overview

Over a period of 5 days of trekking in Gangotri / Uttarkashi National Park in the Himalayas, we explore nuances of managerial decision-making, leadership and interpersonal dynamics in challenging situations. By moving out of our comfort zones, we challenge some long-held assumptions and develop a deeper understanding of ourselves and our thought processes. This outdoor program will be led by management professors and experienced professionals who have summited Mount Everest and other peaks.

Objectives

Contextualized in current research and delivered in the Himalayan outdoors, this program is designed to encourage participants to push the boundaries of their self-imposed limitations with a focus on exploring and testing-
